Biography

Tasscha Lico was born in Cracow, Poland and moved with her family to Canada in 2000. Born in Cracow, Poland, Tasscha Lico is a BC based artist whose work is described as modern realism. She sources inspiration from beauty of human beings and nature.

Her degree in business and advertising didn't speak to the soul of this artist, and becoming a mother to three busy and beautiful boys took up most of her time and energy; and still does. Tasscha found she was finally able to express her passion for life through the art of painting when picking up the paintbrush for the first time in the summer of 2003.

The beauty of the body, and her belief that colour can heal, fuels her passion to create such sensual pieces that touch us so emotionally and gratifies the senses. Tasscha says, "painting is like telling a story, and the colours are my words."

Although Tasscha sources inspiration through books and magazines, some of which are famous subjects, a substantial amount of her work involves portraits interpreted from photographs of family and friends. She looks forward with enthusiasm as she continues to share her work with others and reaps the benefits of exploring her own gift.

Living on the beautiful west coast influences her art in creating landscape pieces along with portraits.
